

Teodora Vuletić, I acquired my bachelor's and master's degree in psychology at the Faculty of Philosophy in Belgrade, primarily focusing on subjects related to Clinical and Developmental Psychology. I had a year of practical experience at the Institute of Mental Health in Belgrade, mostly working with families and adolescents. I have been cooperating with the non-governmental organization named PIN for many years now, in order to help preserve the psycho-social well-being of youth in our country, as well as refugees/migrants. My interests in doctoral studies are focused mostly on family complexes and constellations, developmental psychopathology, and theoretical psychoanalysis. I am currently engaged in the Counseling Center for Students, organized by Module for Clinical Psychology (Department of Psychology, Faculty of Philosophy). Currently, I am also in education for psychotherapy. However, music is, and always will be, an inevitable part of my life. I finished Music High School and played the flute. Although I am still actively involved in performing, I occasionally conduct research, as well. So far, I have worked on children's ability to conserve certain aspects of music, following the bases of Piaget's theory, and I hope to be able to continue this work.
